

Daffodil drive to the museum

Thanks to a grant from the "Cheshire Year of the Gardens" we were able to buy daffodil bulbs to adorn the driveway to the museum.

In October 2008 Paul Curzon arrived with eight huge bags of bulbs and the volunteers had to roll their sleeves up and get digging. All together there were eight volunteers involved during the mammoth dig and it took two full days to get all the bulbs underground around the entrance and approach road.

With the sun and warm weather we have been enjoying over the past few days the daffodils are beginning to open up and should look absolutely magnificent for the Easter opening.
